

THOMAS DOWLING

DIRECTOR OF CONSTRUCTION

 TDOWLING@REDSTONEINVESTMENTS.COM

As the Director of Construction of Redstone Investments, he is responsible for both ground-up new construction and existing property renovations throughout the portfolio. He works closely with internal and external stake holders to assure the timely delivery of the work as well as provides insight on project scope and budgets.

Tom comes Redstone with extensive experience, having worked with several respected organizations over the years. He has experience in both commercial development and construction by having the opportunity to work on large scale mixed-use real estate developments throughout the country; most notably in Atlanta, GA, Southern California, Denver, CO, and the New York metropolitan area. Before joining Redstone, Tom served as the Director of Construction and Operations at Zeisler Morgan Properties and oversaw, construction, operations and property management for the company portfolio.

EDUCATION

- Kent State University | Bachelor of Architecture

PROFESSIONAL AFFILIATIONS

- Internation Council of Shopping Centers (ICSC) - Member